

Dimensión político social en el abordaje de terapia ocupacional en emprendimientos sociales en salud mental

M. Manghi, F.L. Fenoglio, M. A. Alippi
Hospital Borda, Buenos Aires, Argentina

Introduction: The area of employment therapy coordinates since 1997 the social undertaking CicloPapel. The productive unit is a strategy of common mental health that proposes the transformation of the structures mental hospitals to assistance of new modalities that contemplates the participation spaces opening and exercise of the citizenship under the concept of the rehabilitation psicosocial.

Objectives The therapeutic-labor space oriented to the production seeks besides obtaining economic profit value to promote social value aggregate by means of the social circulation of its members. It aims at to favor the autonomy, the reintegration in the community, reaffirming that the person that suffers a Severe mental Disorder, is, without place to doubts a subject of right.

Description: The modality of work proposes dynamic relations among the members based on the heterogeneousness of the group, in a process in which nobody knows it all and all they learn, seeking to take advantage of the best of each one. Reciprocity, participation, and solidarity are the values that support the routine practice, permitting to recognize that there are spaces of encounter where can be negotiated, maintaining the specificities and respecting the differences among the members.

Discussion: Employment therapy acquires prominence in the device favoring the therapeutic process in the phases exploration, competence and achievement. It promotes the development of dexterities and abilities for the exercise of the adaptive roles favoring conducts oriented to the assimilation into society.

Conclusion: Since the routine practice of employment therapy in social businesses real in favor of a competitive performance are executed that requires of the elaboration, development, execution of strategies prestacionales. A favorable framework of social inclusion in opposition to the ideology is generated mental hospital still persists in Argentina.

Contribution to the practice: The professional practice should be legalized to acquire a politico-social dimension. In these years managed to create the Program of Social Undertakings in Mental Health and the fight next to other colleagues permitted that the Law 448 of Mental Health recognize to the social Undertakings as devices of common strategy that has like end the promotion of the health and the integration social-workable.